SOLIDARITY ECONOMICS

A WORLD IN WHICH MANY WORLDS FIT

RETHINK, FIGHT, BUILD

Based on the work of Cynthia Kaufman

FIGHT

To bring that world into being, we must FIGHT the power of coercive systems...

CAPITALISM

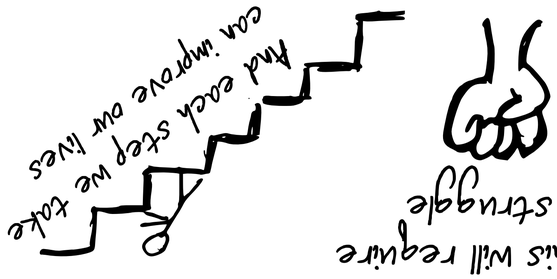

RACISM

PATRIARCHY

...and take them down brick by brick

REVOLUTIONARY REFORM:
transform existing systems in the present to create deep and lasting change for the future

This will require struggle

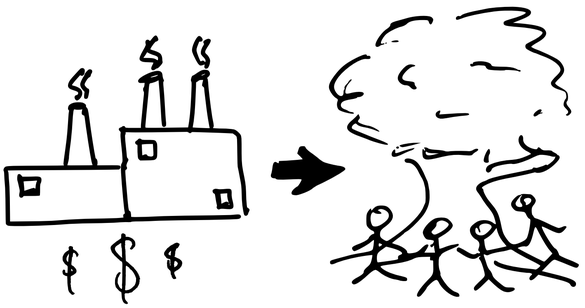

- wealth tax
- reduce corporate power
- reparations for slavery
- restorative justice
- unjust land reclamation
- queer liberation
- reproductive rights
- guaranteed basic needs: education, healthcare, transportation, housing
- defund military

how do we get to a post-capitalist FUTURE?

One in which we are ALL living ~well~

In good relationship with each other and with the ENVIRONMENT

The roots of that future are here

Dormant from our past and ready to grow if we tend to them is built on the idea that we are best off when...

We acknowledge the ways we are INTERDEPENDENT with each other and with the natural world

we try to make them healthy and LIFE AFFIRMING

we ATTEND to the nature of these interdependencies

To get to a world of solidarity, we must:

RETHINK our ideas of how to live well

FIGHT against entrenched powers

BUILD the new world together

RETHINK

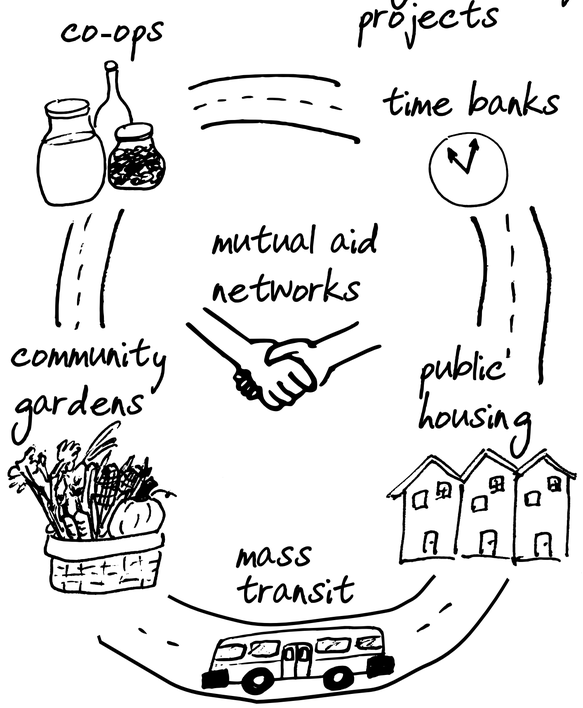

Our current political and economic world is built on ENLIGHTENMENT ideas from hundreds of years ago, and have been used to justify pervasive systems of oppression including racism, patriarchy, and CAPITALISM

Research on human psychology, natural ecosystems, feminism, and indigenous economics all point to new ideas:

OLD	NEW
social Darwinism	all human beings are inherently worthy
nature should be exploited	we are a part of nature and thrive when our environment thrives
resources are scarce	there is enough for everyone to live well

BUILD

scale up existing solidarity projects

Scaling these to our entire economy requires state support and systems of accountability
